*“ Oh my Lewis; Aka Charlie, I just can't believe your gone life is so unfair you was my work husband. Who is going to kick me in morning meeting when I have no filter and it just comes out? We was partners at work and helped each other out alot. You was always there for me and now your gone. I'm going to miss our jokes and laughs we had together. I'll never forget you and NOONE will ever replace you at work. One memory that I'll always remember is when I came in to work and this thing flew down by the door and I said Lewis what is that, you said an owl I said oh my he will eat me if I go out there and you laughed and said he's not going to pick your a** up. Lol. I have lots of good memories with you, until I see you again rest easy my friend, I love you. Pam... As you would say Pamela. Now your our angel.*

“Buddy, I sure wish we had been able to connect over the past few years, if for no other reasons than to laugh at our ridiculous adventures in our late teen years. Some of the funniest stories that I tell involve our care free days when we shared an apartment, stayed up all hours playing video games, threw away the dishes, pots and pans rather than washing them, and picked up new when we bought groceries. The last second concert trip to Kansas City, you remember, the one with the hitchhikers and police, easily ranks us as legends of the 80's. You were there for one of the most important days of my life, as a groomsman in my wedding. Rest in peace my dear friend.

What can be said of Lewis Stone. Wonderful guy. Loved his jokes. He was a great maintenance man. Always on the go and willing to help wherever he could. We will miss you. Still hard to believe you are not with us anymore, but I know you are at peace now and not suffering.

“ Lewis was my number one crush in 6th grade. He always had such a sweet and charismatic personality. He was one of the boys, but also one of the girls. Meaning that he could understand and be a true friend to anyone, no matter who they were. He was always there for you. I only have good memories of him. May he continue to shine and evolve in spirit world. May God bless his family in this time of grief. See you on the other side, Lewis ❤️🥺
