“ How beautifully teendr. I am grateful for your sharing. It was a perfect choice for you to make to share this emotional story with us. Thank you. I am a memory keeper, a story teller, a card maker, just to name some. It has become something fairly recent for me to try to create and store enough inventory of these kinds of creations for a small booth at our Saturday Market & craft fairs. It has not worked well. Everything I make becomes a gift. That's just the way it is and I've stopped apologizing for it. Thanks for such a gentle reminder as well.

“ Prayers! No words can ease the pain or take it away. The memories will always be there. Times like these seems impossible to get passed but you will. Hang in there. Time will only ease the pain. She will always be there.

“ It's the little things, the small, everyday occurrences that you'll remember. The laughs, the stories, the smiles. And even though it seems like you can never recover from your loss, it is these very memories that will help push the pain away and bring back the smiles.

“ I know your going through a difficult time and no amount of words will help take the pain away. As hard as it seems you will get through this. May your memories give you strength.
